Infoshred Develops Core Values

Back in April our leadership team introduced our newly developed "Core Values" to our 34 employees. These are guiding principles of how we want to operate. It outlines our commitment to our principles and our customers. Defining who we are and how we got to where we are today. It is a constant and clear reminder to our employees of the expectations we have set for ourselves within our organization. We are very proud of the values we developed and we were very thoughtful to make them very specific and individualized to Infoshred. Down Load Core Values PDF

Rise of health care cost due to identity theft

"Medical identity theft is a growing and dangerous crime that leaves its victims with little to no recourse for recovery," said Pam Dixon, the founder and executive director of World Privacy Forum. "Victims often experience financial repercussions and worse yet, they frequently discover erroneous information has been added to their personal medical files due to the thief's activities." Read article

Food for Thought

"If you can't fly, then run, if you can't run then walk, if you can't walk then crawl, but whatever you do, you have to keep moving forward."

Helping Hands

At Infoshred, we pride ourselves on giving back to the community through various local organizations.

The Giving Tree Fund, a donor-advised fund with Hartford Foundation for Public Giving established by Infoshred owner Stacey DiPiazza, made its first gift to Hands On Hartford's Backpack Nutrition Program this spring. To see the impact her gift makes, she and her daughters recently visited the Backpack Program and helped assemble backpacks full of food for the coming school year. This program provides backpacks full of easy-to-prepare food during the school year for 285 children in five Hartford public schools.
